Harmonious Freeflow and Overflow in Daily Life

5.1 Awaken to a Three Step Harmony Formula

“Being Clear on” (Who I am + My Life purpose) + Taking Harmonious Actions = Pathway to a Fulfilling Life

The formula highlighted in the box above is presented in the format $x(A+B) + C = D$. Recall also the mathematical principle of solving the elements within the brackets first, before completing the remainder of the formula. Also recall that the “ x ” factor influences everything within the brackets.

I challenge you to work with the formula above and prove its validity with your life experience. Ponder and reflect on the following three simple personalized questions:

1. Who am I?
2. What is my life purpose?
3. Are all my actions in alignment with 1 & 2? Are my actions in harmony?

We each have different knowledge, skills, abilities and a multitude of natural gifts and talents. The question is what are we doing with them? What reason have we given ourselves to stimulate ourselves to consistently make the highest and best use of all of this “stuff” that is uniquely us?

Can you imagine what this world would be like if every individual on the face of the Earth had clear answers to each of the above three questions. Even better, what if everyone was acting upon those answers consistently and with integrity?

Do you have clear answers for yourself to each question above?

Which approach would be more powerful; (i) Asking someone to tell you the answers relevant for you or (ii) Perceiving the answers for yourself?

Pause for a moment and take some quality time to reflect on all of the above things and document your insights.

It is often suggested that our inner circle of family and friends see the possibilities for us probably even clearer than we see them for ourselves. There is some truth in this. However, there is yet another truth, the awareness of which allows us to be more in alignment with our true nature, and which empowers us to be even more perceptive.

5.2 Awaken to Your three-fold nature

Agree with me if you will that all of us are of a three-fold nature. Each of these three elements, a crucial element which combines to form the unique individual we each are. None of which, however, can exist as the “all” of us by itself. Some of which we may deny any importance. All of which we take with us wherever we are. Much of which is winning increasing amounts of Radio and TV airtime. All of which is being included in everyday discussions more and more. What are the elements of this three-fold nature?

- ⁹Spirit
- ¹⁰Soul/Mind
- Body

In this view of man’s true make-up there is an optimal flow from ideas through to action where the ideas are first accessed from spirit; analysed, evaluated, decided on and stored by the soul/mind; which then influences the activities undertaken in the world of our five senses called the body in this context. There is also a sub-optimal flow of ideas and action. This is where the spiritual realm is subrogated (knowingly or unknowingly) and greater credence placed upon ideas accessed from the popular belief system of the community; called the race consciousness. This race consciousness is then accepted and stored by the soul/mind; which then influences the activities undertaken in the body of this world on the level of the five senses.

The key to note is that the process of man’s 3-fold nature works every time whether we allow it to be fed with ideas from spirit or with ideas from the community/race consciousness.

Idea-processed by the soul-leads to action in the body of this world.

If this three-fold nature is true then there is a common basis from which we can all answer question 1 of the “harmony formula” above: 1. Who am I? We now have an opportunity to move away from self-definitions that vary in accordance with the particular role we find ourselves in or perceive ourselves as being in. We now have an opportunity to create new self-definitions focussed on the stable 3-fold nature/core of ourselves.

Pause, ponder and document your “new” self-definition.

Now what of the other two questions of the “harmony formula”: 2. What is my life purpose?
3. Are all my actions in alignment with 1 & 2? Are my actions in harmony?

5.3 Awaken to all of you

5.3.1 - Be conscious of all Seven Aspects of Living and Being

We all get caught up in the business of daily life in the 21st century, racing the clock, attending to such things as learning academic material; preparing for and sitting exams; meeting deadlines; achieving work objectives established by our bosses; keeping businesses afloat; job hunting; surviving; making money; providing clothing, food, transportation and shelter; paying bills; being a good father, mother, care-giver, spouse, sister, brother, friend, lover; looking good; to name a few.

We all perceive that getting up in the morning, taking care of hygiene matters, and attending to the above type of daily routine, will of itself, be insufficient to attain a sense of living life harmoniously, of living a fulfilling life. Yet many of us cannot seem to get off this treadmill of life.

Reach for your own copy of the ¹¹*harmometer*®, which is a tool I am recommending that you work with. By so doing, it is my belief that you will be informed of seven aspects of living and being that need appropriate focus and attention. You will gain knowledge of where that illusive void lies. You will assimilate the simple mechanism incorporated within this tool, designed to help you identify any gaps in our life. You may even gain new/renewed insights on a sense of purpose.

We are actually multidimensional beings capable of appreciating and treating all seven aspects of being consciously. We can awake to the fact that up to now, the interplay between all seven aspects of being may have eluded our conscious awareness. NO MORE!!!! The seven aspects of being are

1. Spiritual - which keeps us in tune with universal, divine intelligence, the realm of all potentiality for utmost good for all concerned. What I have come to view as the real core of our being
2. Emotional/Mental - which is where our perceiving, thinking, feeling and reasoning nature lie.
3. Relational – which is where our interpersonal communication, our “one-to-one” relationships play out

¹¹ Pull out the extra flap attached to the back cover of this book which has a copy of the harmometer® for easy reference

4. Social - which is where communication with a community, our “one-to-many” relationships play out
5. Physical – which is where we interact with the three-dimensional world from the point of our five senses; see, touch, hear, smell, taste. The focus here is on our general wellness.
6. Vocational aspect of being which is concerned with our calling towards a particular occupation (student, employee, retiree, business owner, singer, writer, musician etc)
7. Financial aspect of being which is simply concerned about our money matters

ACTIVITY 1

Take your copy of the harmometer® and ponder these seven aspects of being in your special quiet place free from all distractions. Take a diary (or simply cut an exercise book in half) and pencil with you. Document and date your insights, revelations and commitments to yourself. Note that there are blank pages to the back of this book to facilitate your starting this documenting process. Consider the following questions:-

- 1.1 Does any of the seven have a special appeal to you?
Why?
- 1.2 Is there any aspect of being that you have been overlooking? Why?
- 1.3 Which one of these seven aspects of being will you give focused attention over the next week? What specific actions will you take to grow in this area? At what specific time of day? How much time will you commit to this each day over this next week? [We are saying a week so that you can just get started right now.]
- 1.4 What changes do you expect as a result of taking these actions?
- 1.5 Do you perceive your life purpose and any alignment with any of these areas of being? Write it down, meditate on it, and see what plans are revealed and evolve over time.
- 1.6 Can you perceive how the seven aspects of being interplay with each other in your own life, world and affairs?

After the first week, check your level of accomplishment against the commitment you had made to yourself and then take a week off. Repeat the exercise thereafter as often as there is a felt need; seeing areas of improvement and seeing if a different aspect of being tugs for attention.

So now you may be thinking, “OK I can appreciate how the harmometer® can enhance my conscious awareness of the seven aspects of living and being. I can even concede that it helps me clarify my life purpose. But what about question 3 in the three step formula - Harmonious actions?”

5.4 Awaken to invisible energy flows

5.4.1 Be conscious of your energy level

Any action, to be sustained, requires energy. Alignment with life purpose gives motivation, a reason for action. It is, however, high energy that ensures consistency of action. At some point in our life we have heard the statement “Energy is neither created nor destroyed it merely changes from one state to another”. We, however, may not have applied this to our own internal energy systems neither to the transfer of energy between each aspect of being nor even to the transfer of energy between persons during any interaction. With the harmometer® there is a simple scale/scoring system to rank your own internal energy level for each of the seven aspects of being. Additionally, the same scoring system can be used to evaluate the impact any interaction had or is likely to have on your own energy system.

The harmometer® scale is shown in the following table

1 ENTIRELY DEPLETED	2 LOW	3 NEUTRAL	4 HIGH	5 ENTIRELY UPLIFTED

If you had to choose to open one of the two doors below to interact with a group of people who would support you as you uplift your life world and affairs, which would it be?

Door#1 leads to a room full of non-achievers, nay sayers, believing in doom and gloom, all with their energy levels entirely depleted, and generally an air of hopelessness prevails.

Door#5 leads to a room of high-achievers, sharing their knowledge, skills & ability with each other, seeking additional opportunities, all with their energy levels entirely uplifted, and generally an air of having fun, a sense of oneness and a “I CAN” attitude prevails.

Each room is a depiction of you and your inner chatter/your inner-thoughts, depending on the energy level of and interplay between each of your seven aspects of being.

Space 4 More

Harmonious Freeflow and Overflow in Daily Life

Let us agree then that the intention is to maintain our energy levels on the harmometer® scale at 3 or above. Additionally, let us recognize the signal that there is need for appropriate corrective steps to be taken whenever the scale is at a score less than 3.

ACTIVITY 2

Set aside some time to be alone in your special quiet place free from all distractions. Take a diary (or simply cut an exercise book in half) and pencil with you. Document and date your insights, revelations and commitments to yourself. From the harmometer® :-

- 2 Consider the spiritual aspect of being and imagine that your energy level is at its lowest - entirely depleted (a score of 1). When you are in this “entirely depleted” space spiritually, consider in turn its impact on each of the other six aspects of being?
- 2.2 Now imagine that the energy level for your spiritual aspect of being changes to its highest - entirely uplifted (a score of 5). What can you see in your minds eye happening to the energy levels in the other six aspects of being?
- 2.3 Now take the emotional aspect of being and repeat the exercise first with the energy level being at its lowest, then changing to its highest as above.
- 2.4 Keep repeating the exercise using each of the remaining five aspects of being in turn.
- 2.5 Do you have any new insights/revelations on the interconnectivity between the seven aspects of being as a result of this exercise?
- 2.6 Have you identified any one aspect that has the greatest influence on all the others for you?
- 2.7 How are you going to use these insights/revelations to positively influence your life?
- 2.8 What commitments are you willing to make to yourself in this regard?

We have now complete phase#1 of the program, the “Awaken to ...” phase. We are now intimate with the harmometer ®¹² and the 3-step harmony formula¹³. We now know how critical it is to stay in alignment with our 3-fold nature in order to have optimal results¹⁴. We are clear that we are multidimensional, that there are seven aspects of living & being, and that energy is transmitted between each¹⁵.

Now its time to “Stay Awake.....” and consistently utilize this knowledge to its fullest advantage in our everyday life, world and affairs.
